Angelika Albrecht-Schaffer was born in Neu-Ulm in 1957. She lives in Augsburg since 1982.

Puppets and puppet theater accompany them almost throughout their lives. She self-taught herself in figure construction and acting with very different teachers.

She studied social pedagogy and used puppetry as a medium in her work with children, young people and adults. She gave and gives further training in puppet making, puppet acting and shadow theater. For over 25 years she taught playing arts, theater and handcraft at the academy for social education and trained young people to become educators.

She has published her experience in play and theater education as well as puppet theater in several books.

In 1993 she founded the puppet theatre Kladderadatsch. She plays fairy tales and fables in her own version, mainly with tablefigures. Everything is handmade. Her stories should be fun and stimulating.

She mainly plays in kindergartens. Since 2021 she has also been traveling with the LambelambeTheater with great enthusiasm.

In 2014, the puppet theater district was founded in the Association of Bavarian Amateur Theaters, of which she is chairwoman. It is important to her to connect like-minded people and organize professional training for puppetplayers.

Angelika Albrecht-Schaffer would like to pass on her enthusiasm for puppet theater to young people and adults. Shining eyes and curious questions after a performance give her great pleasure.
